

I-Caption

By Sound Associates, Inc.

I-Caption is a state-of-the-art, wireless, visual aid that provides verbatim closed captions and subtitling on an individual hand-held receiver. Originally designed for live theatrical productions, this fully-automated system displays dialogue, lyrics and sound effects with the efficiency of real-time captioning at a fraction of the cost and manpower.

The Sound Associates I-Caption™ System combines the power of a CS-2 Computer Base Station, the convenience of Microsoft® PowerPoint Presentation and the portability of the Dell Axim personal computer to create individual captioning and subtitling in the venue.

First, a "script" of the program is created on individual slides in a PowerPoint Presentation and stored on SD Flash cards, which are inserted into the PDA. Automation is achieved through the Sound Associates CS-2 computer base station, which utilizes midi show control or SMTE / midi timecode to cue the next slide graphic. Slides are continually advanced to run concurrent with the live program or presentation with the precision of real-time captioning while remaining completely automated.

The CS-2 has the capacity for three different timings, allowing two different sets of slides to be run for the same program. This is ideal for offering captioning for the deaf and foreign language translation for the same program. The third timing channel is available to provide real-time manual captioning from the CS-2 keyboard.

Substituting a handheld PDA for the cumbersome titling displays ensures each end user has perfect visibility of the text. The controlled backlighting of the PDA receiver makes it less intrusive to others.
